

Wisconsin 2002 CATV Broadband Service Availability

Cable TV Companies (CATV), using the cable television networks with cable modems, provide broadband-type internet access to their customers and in some cases Voice over Internet Protocol technology. These systems mainly use hybrid facilities, made up of coaxial cable and fiber cable. The CATV companies serve primarily residential customers.

Note: A comparison map for year 2000 was not available.

Map 11

January 2004
Public Service Commission